

INTERARCH BUILDING PRODUCTS NEWSLETTER

Vol:8, Issue 3, March 2017

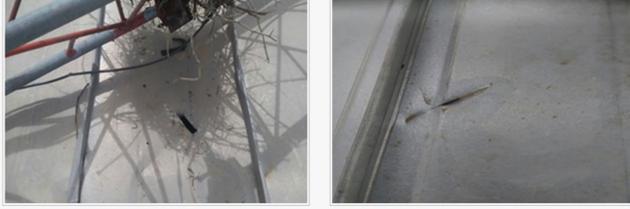

Due to various environmental and pollution related factors metal buildings and roofing assemblies require slight maintenance from time to time. To achieve the desired life and functionality, maintenance of the building is also important just like any other maintenance of plan & machinery and other equipment in your factory.

Pre-monsoon building maintenance check points to avoid any potential leakage

1. Eave gutter and valley gutter should be thoroughly cleaned. Any dry leaves, garbage or any other kind of items can choke the gutter drainage system. It has to be cleaned before monsoon without any delay.

2. Roof inspection should be done to check for any damages to roof sheets, flashings etc. due to winds, man movement or animals etc.

3. Opening of all down spout pipes should be clear at ground level for free flow of water from the roof. Down spout pipes should be at least one foot above the ground level

4. Any modification done on the roof sheeting by any other party, after building handover by Interarch, should be checked properly for leak proofing

5. Damages due to any civil work done after handover, should also be checked properly

Interarch strongly recommends executing a pre-monsoon check upon the pre-engineered building before the raining season start and we highly recommend forwarding this e-mailer to the concern person/ in-charge for maintenance of the building in your company
